Good Apple Award Recipients

Rhonda Lopez, Randy Remsen, and Tiffany Shotnokoff, all Transportation Drivers, District Offices, were recommended for a Good Apple Award by Julie Shotnokoff, Lead Transportation & Safety Tech and Lance Boyd, Director of Student Services, District Offices because of the following: These three represent what is great about our school district. These school bus drivers are always trying to make the students rides better and safer. They constantly think outside of the box and are always looking to better student transportation and safety. All three drivers are always excited to transport students, and the students enjoy their drivers. Their positive attitudes and student first mentality is greatly appreciated by all who work with them. All three are great assets to our team. We are excited and honored to recommend them for the Good Apple Award to show how much we care for them and appreciate the great job they do.

Lauren Coughlin, 6th Grade Teacher, Giant Springs Elementary School, was recommended for a Good Apple Award by Rhonda Zobrak, Principal, Giant Springs Elementary School because of the following: Lauren won an extra prep time in a staff event and then proceeded to use it to go to East Middle School to have lunch with a former student who didn't have a parent to bring with her for a special event. I am constantly amazed by the lengths our staff will go to for kids.

Emilie Martin, Crossing Guard, Longfellow Elementary School, was recommended for a Good Apple Award by Katie Bailey, Superintendent Advisory Panel Member, because of the following: I just wanted to give a shout out to Emilie. She is always smiling, waving, and is just a light in community of Great Falls. Thank you for what you do Emily.
